

Meadow Cottage

Client: Stamford Bridge Properties

Architect: Histon Allvey Architects

Contractor: Navan Ltd

Project Scope: Design and build of a new Lutyens-style house for a private client

JTC's Services: Pre-contract technical advice, monitoring manufacture and overseeing the joinery installation

Project Description:

Meadow Cottage is a stunning, 5,000 sq.ft house in Cobham, Surrey. The design is based on Lutyen's style of architecture and features a spectacular, triple-height main reception and elaborate oak joinery throughout.

JTC's Services:

With the extensive use of intricate woodwork on such a high value project, Histon Allvey Architects employed our services to ensure the joinery contract met the high standards of their discerning client.

Malcolm Birchwood worked closely with Histon Allvey developing their design, assisting with the specification and providing technical advice throughout the project. Malcolm also oversaw the manufacture and installation of all the joinery including the staircase, balustrading, wall panelling and doors.

"JTC's expertise and professional approach certainly assisted us with the delivery of this very prestigious project. Histon Allvey would be happy to use JTC again and would definitely encourage architects and designers to consider using JTC at the design stage of any project."

Rob Allvey,
Director of Histon Allvey Architects
